

Mirella Giannini, Donatella Imparato (2000), Telelavoro ed efficienza produttiva: La gestione e la regolazione dei rapporti di telelavoro. (Telework and Efficiency: Managing and Regulating Professional Relations. With English summary.), Economia e Lavoro 34(1):81-98

Abstract:

The paper deals with the managing and trading change in the hypothesis of telework, the focus being on the relationship between employment and efficiency paradigms. The rising teleworked employment has been noticed to concern mainly competent self workers, who are already employed, and the projects, which are aimed at interesting in teleworking unemployed people who need vocational training, depend on ethic managerial choices, while the concerted regulation of the telework relations will be defined.