Abstract:

In this paper, we investigate about the concept of justice in Imam Khomeini's Opinion, who was the founder of an Islamic revolution in Iran. We have illustrated that in his ideas and policies equality and providing the basic needs for all of the people form the core of his thoughts in relation of justice. We identify a general framework of performing pattern of justice in Imam Khomeini's Opinion by extracting 14 principles among his statements about justice. A noticeable point in this study is a relative coordination and harmony between Imam Khomeini's Opinion and the idea of "basic needs" in development economics.
